Hello all, thank you for tuning into the Truth Rebel Podcast. I am your host Kimberly Wright-Davis aka Da Host Senna S8nt, red eye beast or Halo Crown it depends who I am that day. Again, I thank you so very very much for joining me for our Minute talk sessions where listeners or myself ask questions, describe a situation to seek advice, openly go off raves and rants, present poetry, and whatever it is participants would like to share. The Truth Rebel Podcast does not turn down any topics at all, but I do ask that you consider others when you submit content about politics, religion, and sexuality. Please do not, I mean do not submit any sex, violence or spam recording, and that you keep your audio recordings under 10 mins, and your written material under 500 to 800 words. If you would like to submit your material you can email MP3 formatted audio ,PDFs, or a composed email to Podcast@theventhouse.com .

It is required for me to make those statements before I start the podcast just to provide my new listeners and those who may want to participate in one of my sessions with some information about the show and how to get on the show. Okay so, that's done, let's go ahead and begin. I received another question today, I keep all of my participants anonymous for safety reasons. Only because these topics can be mind blowing, can create anger, frustration and provoke the total opposite, it depends on how a person interprets what is being said. Some of these questions, MP3 recordings, and composed emails are sent in by low vibe individuals as well as woke indies so it is what it is. We all are adults but some topics can create triggers for some listeners and all I am saying is just be careful and keep the peace. There are many ways to comment to give advice to the submitter, you can give me a thumbs up , critique me, and or give more advice to others posting to the feed. I will later share those various ways after the session.

Alright this question comes from Lori in Jacksonville, Florida. She gave me a little side note of why she asked the question, so before I read into that, I will just give some insight of the reason for her question. So Lori is in a relationship with a Non-Believer. She said he is a great guy but does not believe in God, Christ, nor any aspects of religion. He does not speak to her rudely, they have never fought to the degree of breaking up nor feeling disrespected because they have an understanding of one's freedom of speech, and they are content with each other's interest and way of lifestyle. The only thing is that Lori feels that her household can never be blessed and filled by God because of her boyfriend's lack of connection. He said life has always been great without knowing, praising, and submitting to God, so Lori wants to know if it can continue to be a good relationship, leading into marriage or she should just be friends and find a guy who is a believer as well?

Dear Senna

Can a Non-Believer and a Christian have a successful marriage?

Hey Lori gal, great question, and I am sure this will help a lot of people out that struggle with the same issue, as well as the ones who need validation as to where this is stated biblically. Because this is strictly for those that are in practice of christianinty. There is no way you should be engaging into conversations like this if you do not have the understanding that this only applies specifically to a select group of people, which are believers. Those who accept Jesus Christ as their Savior. Because I study the bible, and I know what the Heavenly Father had written into the cannons by his elect it is only right to say No, you can not have a successful marriage as a Non-Believer and a Christian. Why, because you are Unequally Yoked. Meaning one of you knows the way, the truth, and the light, and the other knows the carnal way of obtaining knowledge, wisdom, and understanding by living a self constructed life.

Since there is an even tone in your relationship I know you feel that marriage can be a breeze too, and it maybe for a while, but as a christian you have to understand the union that's about to take place. It will no longer be just you and your boyfriend. It will now include God because he will be giving you away to a man that claimed his lost rib. This is a ritual pretty much. This is required to be done by The Most High, and must be in agreeance by both participants, and since your boyfriend does not understand the importance of why this form of marriage is necessary in Christianity it now becomes a target of destruction by the accuser, which is satan. You have to think about it this way; If you get married to a non believer, he can convince you to do things you know goes against what the bible tells you is a no. Once this happens it's going to create tension, and once tension builds the mindset of you both will start to change in regards to one another. Meaning something is changing and I do not like it anymore. This is the number one thing that causes any relationship to split, rather you are a couple that is saved or not. Start out how you can hold out. I am going to be honest, but this is only my opinion. I think, and forgive me when I say this, but I truly believe that you are content with something ungodly that keeps you staying with your boyfriend. There is a side you have learned to accept about him because it's a side that you can relate to. Why I say this, because you know the rules of an equally yoked relationship or marriage. You know that in order to have a relationship with the Father you must know him. Your boyfriend does not know him, and doesn't want to know him. Not even for you. So at this point it reveals the selfishness in him that you are willing to accept because of contentment.

Yes he is nice to you, yes he respects your interest and opinion, but that's about it. As long as you keep him in his comfort zone, he's going to continue to seem great. You are being deceived, and Satan is setting up a stronghold for you in the future. You submit this question because you see red flags in areas you know needs to be addressed, but you are afraid to do so because it's a breeze to love a guy that is worldlier than a guy who is going to keep you in line with the world and not in touch with your desires. Like I said earlier something ungodly has you accepting the non believe that you are willing to marry, knowing God is not his center focus. No, he needs to come to Christ if he loves you, or you need to accept that you are a step ahead of Salvation and refuse to lose your relationship with the Father for some man. Wake up! I am the right woman to tell you honey cause I settled for destruction instead of the love of the Father and got my feelings completely hurt. No baby, it will not work. I'm sorry to tell you. Do not allow yourself to settle for a carnal minded person, when you can have someone that cares about your spirit and final destination.

Marrying a non-believer keeps you doing Non-Believers deeds. This will cause you to be equally yoked but in an ungodly way. Yes you will thrive then, but not the way God wants you to. He has much to offer the equally yoked couple than the unequally yoked. Don't get me wrong, two equally yoked marriage partners stumble all the time, no marriage is perfect, but together you are considered one. Your husband goes before the lord on the behalf of both of you when you mess up. And in your case you have no leadership to pray for when things get taught, leaving your relationship open for Satan to keep on coming in to cause mishaps after mishaps. Your boyfriend can't pray for you, he isn't even a part of the kingdom family. You have to be baptised and added to the family. He's an outsider. There's no protection there. No ma'am, get you a believer on your team, so when there is an attack you have a warrior or a husband whacking that attack right back in its place. Sending it back ten fold to its sender, satan and his minions.

I will end it here with a few scriptures for everyone to go and read to further assist with your studies in reference to this topic, because this is important. I will read 2 Corinthians 6:14-18 out loud and I will have other scriptures for you to document to read on your own time.

2 Corinthians 6:14-18 says,

“ 14 Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?

15 And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel?

16 And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

17 Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you.

18 And will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty.
